Database & Web Site Updates

Highlights from March 2013 – March 2014

- Ongoing ~ Indexing approvals, overseeing indexers' workflow, social media monitoring, Web page updating
- March 2013 ~ Chiroindex.org domain name for next 10 years
- April 2013 ~ Communication with David O'Bryon (Executive Director, ACC) ICL has a full page on the ACC site; also in links section (http://www.chirocolleges.org/chiro\_literature.html)
- Web page on WFC site updated
- May 2013 ~ Reports from indexers about indexing form stalling; continued into 2014; triggered by particular words; programmers spent much time trying to find a fix
- AT-V left librarian position at CMCC; continues work on ICL
- June 2013 ~ Editor and Co-Editor (Phyllis & Anne) met in Toronto (Phyllis was attending a NASIG conference in Buffalo)

Database & Web Site Updates cont'd

- July 2013 ~ Problem creating new usernames & passwords reported; programmers fixed (no charge)
- Problem with accents and other special characters not displaying properly; programmers fixed (no charge)
- August 2013 ~ Editors proposed to the Index Committee that we get a cost quote from Boomer Co. for a mobile version of ICL
- September 2013 ~ Problem with volume and year numbering reported; programmers fixed (no charge)
- Boomer responded with a cost ($5,000) for converting ICL to a responsive site
- Message sent to Index Committee for approval to move ahead on the mobile application; approval by Committee, proposal sent to library directors for final approval

- Annual Web hosting invoice received and paid
- October 2013 ~ All help files on ICL site updated
- Editors proposed that ICL's home page be changed to a Google-style single search box, with search function improved and a link to the advanced search page (in anticipation of the mobile site); cost is $450; official approval received, much testing by Editors followed
- Chair of Index Committee Annette Osenga corresponded with Claire Johnson re requirements for advertising for the new mobile site
- November 2013 ~ programming work on new site began, with constant communication between programmers and Editors
- Co-Editor re-wrote search tips to include Simple Search Tips and Advanced Search Tips

- Testing of new features by Editors and colleagues took up much of November; programmers adjusted accordingly; hours of testing and reporting to programmers, then re-testing
- New programming features:
  - site designed to look as much like the current site as possible, considering the three versions (computer, tablet and smartphone)
  - navigation bar spaced to include all features on computer and tablet versions
  - entire site re-designed for smartphone version (e.g. home page designed for clarity and effectiveness; navigation bar incorporated the sitemap; search tips were simplified)
  - social media logos and links were moved from the bottom of the navigation to just under the search box

- December 2013 ~ The new site was activated on December 9, 2013
- The new site was announced through chirolib-I, LinkedIn, Facebook and Twitter
- Problem encountered with viewing abstracts on smartphones; a new search tip was added - “On smartphones, ICL works best in landscape mode!”
- The problem with indexing abstracts resurfaced and was reported to the programmers; they were puzzled about why words like “select” and “drop” stalled the indexing process, and called it “insane” [problem continued until March]
- Index Committee lost a member, Marcia Thomas, who retired from Cleveland Chiropractic College after 37 years

- January 2014 ~ Wanda of Life West worked on full and half page advertisements; draft ads sent to Index Committee for approval
- One of the images on ICL's masthead was replaced by a hand holding a smartphone in landscape mode (to emphasize preference for this mode); the programmers sent us images we can use in advertisements

Index to Chiropractic Literature goes mobile! Any time, anywhere, any device. Always free.

The mobile version of the Index to Chiropractic Literature is now live. Our new responsive site automatically adapts to any device you choose. Smartphone users love it!

7 → ~ Search Tips ~

- * On smartphones, ICL works best in landscape mode.
- * Type words in the search box to do a Google-type search. The Boolean operator AND automatically connects the terms.
Example: The search neck pain Vernon retrieves articles on neck pain by author Vernon.
- * Use quotation marks to retrieve phrases.
Examples: "low back pain", "future of chiropractic"
- * Use an asterisk (wildcard) to retrieve all forms of a word (also called truncation).
Example: *chiropract** retrieves chiropractic, chiropractor, chiropractors

Highlights ~ My ICL

Users are prompted to set up My ICL accounts if they try to save
searches/results;
592 subscribers
as of March 15

The screenshot displays the My ICL interface. At the top, there are links for "Online Author Index" and "Online Subject Index". Below these, a search bar contains the text "Abdominal Muscles / physiopatho" and a "Subject Keyword" dropdown. A blue arrow points to a modal dialog box that appears when a user attempts to save a search or result. The dialog box contains the following text:

To use this feature you must register a personal account in My ICL. Registration is free! In My ICL you can save your ICL searches in My Searches, and you can save search results in My Collections. Be sure to use the Held Citations feature to collect citations from an entire search session. Read more search tips.

Below the text are two links: Sign Into Existing My ICL Account and Register A New My ICL Account.

The main content area shows "Search Results: 4 articles were found" with a "Hold Citations" button. Below this is a table of search results:

<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	Journal	ID	Article Title	Author(s)
